

Chief's Corner

Greetings,

As we continue to make progress during today's challenging social climate, I would like to assure those that we serve that our Department is proactive in training respective to current issues. Recent monthly trainings that all members of this Department completed covered various topics including Hate Crimes, Use of Force, Social Competency, Implicit Bias, Racial Profiling and Officer Mental Well Being.

Providing our Officers with this applicable training and knowledge is critical to the overall success of this Department; as well as assuring effective and transparent police service within the community.

Respectfully,
Chief John Galvin

Crime Prevention Tips

Gas Station Safety- Carjackers have identified gas stations as excellent locations to find victims. They simply wait for the moment when they can easily move into a vehicle and drive away. Many drivers leave their keys in the ignition and their cars unlocked when they get out to pump gas. While the driver is out of the car, the carjacker can simply open the car door, get in the car and drive away. This is especially dangerous if your children and/or pets are in the vehicle.

Never leave your keys in the ignition. Take them out of the vehicle and lock your car while you are pumping gas. Also, do not leave valuables in plain sight.
